T.K. Thorne

“Floods, Bombs, & Angels: A Writer’s Journey”

T.K. Thorne became a police officer during the first decade of women policing in Birmingham, Alabama, retiring years later as a captain. She speaks about being a woman in a macho man’s world; how she didn’t end up in a space capsule; wrote a book about a pivotal event in civil rights history and award-winning historical novels about completely unknown women in two of the world’s oldest and most famous stories. An experienced speaker, T.K. shares her surprising journey as a writer and author.

Bio:

T.K. Thorne’s childhood passion for storytelling deepened when she became a police officer in Birmingham, Alabama. “It was a crash course in life and what motivated and mattered to people.” When she retired as a captain, she took on Birmingham’s business improvement district as the executive director before retiring again to write fulltime.

Both careers and a Masters Degree in Social Work from the University of Alabama provide fodder for her writing, which has garnered several awards, including ForeWord Reviews’ “Book of the Year for Historical Fiction” for her debut novel Noah’s Wife and Angels at the Gate, the coming-of-age story of Lot’s Wife, which won the Benjamin Franklin Award for historical fiction. The New York Post’s “Books You Should Be Reading” list featured her first non-fiction book, Last Chance for Justice, which details the behind-the-scenes investigation of the 1963 Sixteenth Street church bombing case. Most recently, Thorne explores murder, mayhem, and magic when a police officer discovers she’s a witch in her newest novel, House of Rose, the first of the Magic City stories.

She loves traveling, especially to research her novels, and speaking about her books and life lessons. She writes at her mountaintop home near Birmingham, often with a dog and cat vying for her lap.

“...a terrific storyteller.”

—Sena Jeter Naslund, author of Ahab’s Wife
